Departmental Program Reviews a lot of buzz because of shift to something more holistic from program reviews. Would like to pilot departmental program reviews in Spring.

The departmental program reviews will be more comprehensive and it is expected that more than one person will be involved in the process. A broader approach to the program reviews will be beneficial. Also, we need to better align with what departments are already asked to do. What we want to do is leverage information. Department report is last 5 years of annual report data. Summarize and project out what will be the future of the department. For those with specialized accreditations, we want to make sure it is in alignment with departmental reviews. Any new pieces will be provided by IEA. There is a 2 year time line. Will meet in next 3 weeks or so with the group. Draft by end of spring/summer. Not as crunched. Does lead to external review in the 4th semester... spring of 2nd year identified by the department IEA.

Goal to give better picture of what is going on in the department rather than a program.

What is the goal of the departmental review? It really would help him with long term budget planning. Annual report is one year snapshot. The departmental review gives a where the department plans to be in 5 years and goals. Field projections, resources, not only money but space too. Right now, reports are not holistic. We are not collecting data as long term as we should be.

Departmental reviews will be on a 7 year schedule after 5 start 2 year process. Some departments may differ from that schedule, depending on the accreditation schedule.

The departmental reviews will include anything that is going on in the department, including certificate programs.

This year is just the pilot. We need to be mindful of those who just completed graduate program reviews. There is a big spreadsheet with a lot of moving pieces. We hope to share it by end of the academic year.

If done well should benefit the department chair as much as the dean and the provost. Information could be used for faculty replacements rather than just hiring as always hired.

There was some discussion about the role of the Associate Deans in the departmental review process. It was noted that the associate deans could be helpful with coordination of the departmental program reviews [(d)-4Tw 17.0t2.9 (me)9.1 (n)-4 4a230 (r)4 (e)3 (pl)14 (a)4 (c)8i i13w 4.
